The Trenton Fire and Elkton Outrage Greatly Deplored By Law-Abiding Citizens.

Elkton, Ky., Dec. 12,-The lates Elkton, Ky., Dec. 12,—The latest and most sensational developments in the contest between the Dark Tobacco Growers' Protective Association and the buyers for the trust were the dynamiting of a factory here to-day and the boarding of a train near here inst night by armed and masked men, who stated that they were in search of tobacco-buyers.

It was this morning about 1:30 o'clock that the factory owned by Mrs. M. B. Penick was blown to atoms by a charge of dynamite. The factory was neaf the railroad, and was used by the local agents of the American Snuff Company. The explosion damaged several nearby houses and also several passenger coaches at the denot.

It was Elkton and Guthrie train No. 86 that the masked crowd, variously estimated as numbering from forty to 200 persons, boarded last night. They covered the engineer with revolvers, and a party of them went through the train. The seeming leader of the crowd calmed the fears of the passengers by stating that they were searching for tobac-co-buyers. None was found on the train, and after the fruitless search had ended the crowd ordered the train to proceed.

The Situation Acute.

The Situation Acute.

The situation in Todd county is acute, and while the great mass of people deplore the condition and hope that no further acts of violence will mark the contests between the Dark Tobacco Grower's Protective Association and the buyers for the safety of the representatives of the Trust, there is general fear for the safety of the representatives of the Trust, who, in the general excitement, may be singled out as the victims of a lawless element, taking advantage of the situation.

victims of a lawless element, taking advantage of the situation. Members of the association openly deplore the burning and dynamiting of factories, and aoserts that representative members of the association are in no way responsible for the lawless acts committed by a few.

Much Alarm Is Felt.

Franchise was introduced in the City Council on the same might as the Home bill. The history of the former bill was published and it was finally rejected, only three Councilmen voting for it. It is hardly probable that after its inglorious defeat that it will be again revived. Another company, however, also supposed to be a dum-ye company, was perform the offi-Much Alarm Is Felt.

The acts of violence following so closely on the burning of factories at Trenton, this county, have caused alarm, and editizens who sympathize with the tobacco association, but deplore the outrages, are considering steps to preserve the good name of the community. It is probable that the citizens, most of them members of the association, will raise a fund of $1,000 to be offered as a reward for the arrest of the persons guilty of these acts of violence.

Last Friday night the factory of Chestnut Brothers, at Trenton, was burned down, entailing a loss of $9,000, covered by $4,000 insurance. About 5,000 pounds of tobacco was burned, but it was fully insured. Chestnut Brothers and J. P. Russell are representatives of the trust. Chestnut Brothers and J. P. STATESMEN'S DUELS.

The earl of Kimberley's much-discussed challenge to Col. Sap-well is a reminder that though the days of duelling are considered to have passed in England, the right-ing spirit will break out on occa-sions.

ing spirit will break out on occa-sions.

Not very long ago Mr. Winston Churchill was challenged to an encounter a l'outraine by an irate constituent at Oldham.

Lord Beaconsfield once challenged O'Connell to a duel, but the famous statesman found himself bound over to keep the peace in a police court instead of departing across the channel to blow out the brains of his political opthe brains of his political opponent.

O'Connell himself fought a duel
with a member of the Irish house of commons named D'Esterre and killed his opponent.
Another fatal duel was that in which Lord Camelford, one of the most confirmed duellists of his day and a man who had the death of more than one fellow creature
on his hands, was killed by Mr.
Best.

The last duel fought in Ireland was between a mayor of Sligo and a member of the legal profession, but honors were declared easy, for

Mr. Tierney charged Pitt with "obstructing the defenses of the country," and that oratorical ob-servation sounded so terrible in the ears of the eminent statesman that he sent his seconds to Mr. Tierney.

The two met at three o'clock one Sunday morning at Putney heath, not far from the Kingston road, fired two shots at each other and then returned home quite well for breakfast.

Charles James Fox, Pitt's brilliant rival, took occasion to makesome scathing observations on the powder supplied by the warof-dee and promptly received a challenge from Mr. Adams. Fox accepted, the duel was fought, and the statesman was wounded.

"Adams," he is reported to have said on that lamentable occasion, "id do believe you'd have killed me if you hadn't used government powder."

WORKING A MORAL REMEDY

"Speaking of rheumatism," said the drummer, as he sagely shook his head, "I had a brother who was afflicted with it for six years. He tried half a dozen different springs, but he found no relief. At length he determined to try heroic measures. That is, I advised him to do something in that direction as a forlorn hope; and he thought the tip a good one."
"What did he try?" was asked. "He went out into a pasture and faced a built that had tossed half a dozen men sky high. We digured that when the built started for him with head down and tail up the scare would drive the rhenmatism out, and he would strike a 2.40 gait for the fence."
"And how did it work."
"Three minutes after the buil caught sight of Charley his rheumatism was gone, never to return."
"You don't say!"
"But I do; and Charley was "Speaking of rheumatism," matism was gone, never to return."

"You don't say."

"But I dot, and Charley was gone with it. He never knew how high he went when the bull got his horns under him, and he never knew what a hole he made in the ground when he came down."

"Then your—your advice—"

"Was the worst thing he could have followed, sir and it was a great moral lesson to me. Sitned that time I have made it a practice to drink alone instead of advising or encouraging a fellowman to wreck his soul, and as this is my usual time for taking a cocktail, you gentlemen will please excuse me for five minutes."

Whappy Lamb.

"A so-called "happy family" P. T. Barnum used to exhibit consisted of a lion, a tiger, a bear, a wolf, and a lamb all penned together in one cage. "Remarkable!" a visitor said to Mr. Barnum; "remarkable, impressive, instructive! And how long have these animals dwelt together in this way?" Seven months," Barnum answered, "but the lamb has occasionally to be renewed."

Time.

Last Monday afternoon, about four o'clock, Neal Bell, colored, while un-loading a wagon, fell and broke his neck.

Bell was one of the yard and wagon men of the Forbes Manufacturing Company, for whom he had been working many years. He was steady in his habits and was generally liked.
He was standing on a pile of lumber
about six feet from the ground,
and while moving a piece of lumber
with one of his feet, lost his balance and fell between two piles of lumber.

The other men ran to his assistance but when taken out Bell was a corpse One of the men who had worked with Bell testified before the Coroner's jury that for several months with Bell testified before the Coromer's jury that for several months
Bell had frequent attacks of weakness which compelled him at times to stop work until his strength returned, and that he also suffered pain in his head.

There seems to be no dought that the unfortunate man had heart failure, which caused him to fall to his death without a moment's warning.
He leaves a wife and several children.

ren. Coroner Allensworth was notified and he summoned a jury, which returned the following verdict:

We the jury, summoned by Coroner James L. Allensworth, to look into the death of Neal Bell, find from the evidance that in falling from a pile of lumber in the yards of the Forbes M'f'g. Co., his neck was broken.

EVANSVILLEATERE HAUTE P.R. WOMEN IN CHURCH CHOIRS

Regarded Impraedicable by the Authoridies.

Despite the fact that Pope Plus has expressed a wish that there should be no more women in Catholic church choirs and that ecclesiastical music, as distinguished from what Father Wagner, of Brooklyn, terms "holy ragtime," should be sung, little attention is being paid to the matter in this country, vany the Music Leader and Concertgoer. One eastern bishop has notified the clergy under him to reorganize their choirs and have only male voices, but his example is not being followed. Choirmaster Edmund de Vine, of the cathedral parish in Kansas City, Mo., contends that to remove women singers from American Catholic choirs would mean to abolish the choirs. "We would have to substitute boys" voices for those of the women," said the choirmaster, "and it would be impossible to get enough boys banded together to teach them a repertoire. As soon as they would learn half a dozen masses they would move away." The Americans are always 'moving away." They never stay still. As men they are the better for it, because they aspire to something better all the time and go out to find it. As choristers they are the worse for it, for even the Episcopalians, who have really good choirs, experience the most difficulty in keeping enough of their boys to gether to maintain a chorus." In the "east walk" of the cloisters at Westminster Abbey.

In the "east walk" of the cloisters at Westminster Abbey there are three most interesting graves, those of Thomas Betterton and his wife, better known as Bess Saunderson, and the ever-fascinating Mrs. Bracegirdle. Of all the people who lie within those hallowed walls, at may safely be said that Betterfon has the best claim of all to this privilege. No small measure of praise must be accorded to this gifted actor for the fact that he almost more than anyone else was responsible for the resuscitation of the English drama after the stern regime of the Purians. Mrs. Bracegirdle was either adopted by Betterton or placed under his care, and she very soon took all hearts in London by storm. She achieved her greatest success in acting in Congreve's plays. Her artistic career, however, was a comparatively short one, for Mrs. Bracegirdle retired from the stage in dudgeon when Anne Oldfield first became her dangerous rival. She lived on in honorable retirement, and beloved by all, high and low, far and near, until the year 1748, when she was buried here beside her old friends the Bettertons.

Remarkable Cure.

"I was much afflicted with esiatica," writes Ed. C. Nud. Lowaville, Sedgryele Co. Kan, going about on crutches and suffering a deal of pain. I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, which relieved me. I used three-50e bottles. It is the greatest liniment I ever used; have recommended it to a number of per, sons; all expresss themselves as being benefited by it. I now walk without crutches, able to perform a great deal of light labor on the farm. "25c, 50e and $1.00. Sold by Cook and Higgins. Higgins.
